

Initial questions are from
your reading of p. 61-85.

1. What are the four types of support you should use
in your persuasive essays?
(62) Describe each.

2. True or False and Explain:

“Sources should enhance,
not replace, your argument.”

3. Why won't your teacher be more impressed if you use a million cited sources? What is most important in your essay?

4. In the exemplified passages by different authors (p. 65-71), what are five strengths (5 total—NOT per passage) that you noticed in the writings? How do you plan to use those strategies in your essays?

5. P.72. What is your goal when you write a synthesis essay?

6. P.74. What is the prompt asking you to do?

7. What is your opinion about the subject?

8. After reading the sources on pages 75-81, which sources would you deem appropriate for your paper about community service and why?

9. P. 81 How should you engage your audience?

10. After reading the complexities (p. 82) and the questions (p. 83), what is your thesis? Yes, you may use one of the examples on page 83.

11. What advice will you need to incorporate your sources into your synthesis paper? P.84

12. Go to page 165. How did the student present his personal experiences?

13. Read pages 339-342.

Write one parallel statement that you liked.

14. Page 341-342. List four types of specific parallelisms, their definitions, and one example.

15. P. 345 (1-5) Identify each type of parallel structure, explain its effect, and then model a sentence of your own based on the example.